Missourians are not proud of the part Senator Spencer played in the seating of Newberry of Michigan.

A special election is to be held Tuesday, January 31, 1922, for the purpose of electing delegates to the constitutional convention.

No errors of opinion can work injustice or become dangerous so long as they are ventilated in the columns of the newspaper.

The average man, woman and child has been put through too many gymnastics by automobile drives, to ooze much sympathy when one hits a railroad train.

The serial being shown at the Grand on Friday night's, started from Boonville—"Winners of the West."—It, of course, passed through Lexington over the Santa Fe Trail.

The many sales going on in Lexington offers great opportunity to the average man to replace his wardrobe. But the poor "bean poles" and "squash" have no show.

The Republicans in the U. S. Senate have voted to let Mr. Newberry of Michigan to occupy his $200,000 seat. The vote was 46 to 41, with nine Republicans voting with the Democrats.

The House of Representatives recently consumed all of five minutes in appropriating $9, 250,000 for the enforcement of prohibition the coming year. A like sum for every state in the union would be more in keeping with the task.

Let's pull together the coming year as never before. Jump into every worthy enterprise with both feet. Team work is the thing we should seek more and more. Numbers inspires confidence, and confidence is half the battle.

FARM BUREAU NEWS.

Farm Bureau Work in Home Economics.

So far this year, the time has been spent in organizing communities for work. This work will continue thru February. After the first of March very little organization will be continued. Local organization and the making of a program to suit the needs of the people of that locality or community are essential for efficient, economical work. This applies to the men's work as well as the woman's. If your community is ready to profit by such an organization, write, telephone, or better still, call at the Farm Bureau office at Higginsville for any information you may want. We are anxious to reach the people who feel a need for constructive progressive work in their community. This must be done before March 1st as our programs of work for the year go into the state office on that date.

The new year bids fair to be a busy one. At the present writing dates for two weeks are filled and letters out arranging dates for the first two weeks of February. The public meetings scheduled so far are dress form demonstrations at Mrs. H. L. Corbin's east of Dover, January 19, at Mrs. Beismeyer's near Corder, January 20, and at Mrs. Drewell's north of Mayview, January 25, and a pressure cooked demonstration at Mrs. D. F. Buck's near Waverly, January 24. If you are interested in either of these projects get in touch with the hostess nearest you. She will be glad to give you any information she can on the work.

As Dr. Caldwell, County Agent, was sent to Columbia for Farmer's Week the Agricultural notes will be postponed one week.

NOT THE ONLY ONE

There Are Other Lexington People Similarly Situated.

Nathan Talbott, 1810 Railroad St., Lexington, says: "My kidneys were in very bad condition. Many days after doing hard work my back would ache so I could hardly walk. If I stooped over, sharp pains would shoot up and down my back. I felt weak and lame and often had dull pains in my head when everything would seem to be jumping up and down before me. My kidneys acted irregularly and the secretions were painful in passage and contained sediment. I heard of Doan's Kidney Pills and got a few boxes at Marshall's Drug Store. They entirely cured me of all the trouble. Doan's is certainly a fine remedy."

WOULD OWN ENTIRE WORLD

Example of What Can Be Done With Small Sum Allowed to Accumulate for Centuries.

Compound interest is a wonderful device and the New Jerseyite who planned to use it in order to make his bequest increase and multiply may have been of sound mind. Assuming that $1,500 which he left will be allowed to grow from the addition of interest at 6 per cent compounded annually, the principal will become $500,000 in perhaps a century. But why did this shrewd benefactor limit the growth of his bequest to that which will occur in 100 years? If he had provided that his trustees should continue to accumulate interest at the assumed rate for 300 years, the available total would be rather more than $50,000,000,000; and if he had instructed that the bequest lie fallow for four centuries, his trustees would find themselves the owners of the whole world at the end of that period. After carrying the investigation to this point, it begins to appear that there is a limit to the good which post-mortem thrift can effect.—Baltimore Sun.

American Bison Society Will Endeavor to Preserve This Almost Extinct, Beautiful Species.

The prong-horned antelope has disappeared from the western plains and is very near extinct. Last month ten prong-horned antelope fawn were sent from Alberta, Canada, to their new home in Wichita Preserve, Idaho—the only antelope refuge in the United States—the first steps taken toward preserving this distinct species.

"This antelope is the most interesting and purely American big game animal that we have," says Edmund Seymour, president of the American Bison society.

"Its preservation is real constructive work, and this is the main purpose and ambition of the society today. We have saved the American bison; in fact, we have so many surplus bulls that we do not know what to do with them, so we have given our utmost aid to this graceful, beautiful, unique and keen-sighted animal."

SWISS STARTED WINNIPEG.

Originally the city of Winnipeg was founded by Swiss, according to Carl P. Herbscher, consul general for Switzerland, who has been touring the Dominion. Seven hundred Swiss, he stated, were settled there as far back as 1816 by Lord Selkirk, then connected with the Hudson's Bay company. They arrived at Fort Garry and formed a settlement on the Red river, establishing themselves, as far as can be discovered, on the future site of the city of Winnipeg.

SUDDEN DEFERENCE.

"Josh hadn't been in town a week," said Farmer Cornsloss, "before he was on familiar speaking terms with some of the most wealthy and influential families. An' you'd be surprised at the way they pay attention to his ideas."
"How did he manage it?"
"Got himself a job as a traffic cop."

AUTHORITY.

BURNING OIL IN COAL MINES.

Owing to labor troubles, several British mine owners are making oil-burning installations in order to keep the mining machinery, such as pumps and ventilating plant, in operation.

NO NOISE AT THIS AUCTION

In Holland, Business of Buying and Selling Is Conducted Quietly and in Order.

In a Dutch auction, the auctioneer starts at a high figure, which he gradually reduces until a bid is received. In one case in the Westland of Holland market gardeners have joined forces and erected an auction hall on a canal. The growers bind themselves to sell in this market only; thus the merchants are forced to compete with each other. The merchants sit at numbered desks on one bank of the canal, and the auctioneer has an office on the other bank. Each desk has a button communicating electrically with a big dial near the auctioneer. The dial has prices marked round the rim and a big pointer which swings round when released. A large load of cucumbers is punted down the canal between the merchants and the auctioneer. The quantity and quality are announced and the pointer on the dial is released. When the price some merchant is prepared to give is indicated by the pointer he presses his button and the pointer stops. His number on a neighboring board is illuminated, the auctioneer makes a note of the transaction and the next barge moves in. No noise, no fuss; this auction is a victory for co-operation.

A GREAT CONVENIENCE

"What are the wild waves saying?"
Asked his better half.
"We'll never be able to tell, dear, Without a dictagraph."

LUMINOUS BAIT.

Tiny electric lamps, operating from little batteries, have been developed remarkably, so that there are now pocket lamps which are about the size and shape of fountain pens, but the oddest development of all is luminous bait.

This luminous bait is really a very small lamp made in the shape of a bait fish. A little battery sends a current through a tiny electric lamp and the rays shine out through lenses on the side of the bait. Several hooks are attached to capture the fish, which is supposed to be attracted by the marvel.

OVEREDUCATING BILL.

"How's Bill comin' on sence he graduated from that there swell college?"
"Wal, I swanney it's hard to say. He cusses at the mules in Latin, yells at the hogs in Greek and talks French to me an' maw at the table. I'm afraid education is turnin' Bill's mind."—San Francisco Chronicle.

PROVERBS UNRESPECTED.

"If you want a thing done properly do it yourself," said the ready-made philosopher.
"Sometimes, maybe," commented Uncle Bill Bottletop. "But I've about decided I'd rather go thirsty than take chances on these home-made drinks."

RATHER ENCOURAGING.

"I understand that your boy Josh is interested in perpetual motion."
"Yes," replied Farmer Hawbuck, "and I'm kinder encouraged about it. I thought for a while that the only thing Josh was interested in was perpetual rest."—Boston Transcript.

STRONG FOR PEACE.

"Aren't you in favor of peace?"
"I am," replied Senator Sorngnum. "I'm so thoroughly in favor of peace that I am at times afraid to mention it for fear of starting a dispute as to the method of preserving it."

LONESOME.

"There's no use, I must take up golf."
"Need the exercise?"
"No; I want to understand what my friends are talking about."—Boston Transcript.
